The Lenten Devotee.

She dons a gown of dove-like gray,
She puts down violets on her hat;
She looks down in demurest way,
Diplomatic light and late chat;
Each morning and each evening, too,
She goes to church unflinchingly,
A model of devotion true—
The Lenten devotee.

Perhaps the nunlike gown of gray
Accents the roses in her face;
Perhaps the modest violets lay
On golden hair with added grace.
Perhaps for her religious air
The sweeter and the tenderer, she;
But what for contrast's aid can care
The Lenten devotee?

She goes no more to routs and balls,
To culture gives up all her mind;
No more in round of shops or calls
Her chief employment she finds;
Perhaps the sweetest serious fame
Of thought, relieved frivolity;
But never to her such things name—
The Lenten devotee.

On Easter Day a gorgeous maid
In silks and laces, colors fine,
Will join in Fashion's gay parade,
A star add the radiant shine.
If she's the nun it seems she is,
Then how this butterfly can be,
Evolved from that prim chrysalis—
The Lenten devotee?

Williamson—Waldhauer.

The Savannah (Ga.) Morning Times, of Thursday, March 8th, contains the following account of a wedding, for which over three hundred invitations were received by friends and relatives in Richmond, Norfolk, Staunton and throughout Virginia. The Times says:

An interesting event of to-day will be the marriage of Miss Louise Newton Waldhauer to Mr. Arthur Henry Williamson, which will take place at noon in St. John's Church. Although it will be quietly celebrated, the event will be a very beautiful one. The church has been simply and attractively decorated, white and yellow flowers, narcissus and jonquils, being prettily arranged on the altar.

The wedding music will be played by Mr. Blakeley, organist of the church, with the wedding march from "Cohen-grin" as the processional, and some soft French and German airs during the ceremony. The ushers will be Mr. J. DeBruyn Kops, Mr. William Faucett, Mr. John Owens and Mr. Frank McIntire. Miss Louise Fallant, as maid of honor, will precede the bride, who will enter with her two brothers, Mr. David F. Waldhauer and Mr. Richard Winston Waldhauer. Mr. Williamson's best man will be Mr. Edward R. Banks.

The bride's gown, imported from Lucerne, is of white pongee, beautifully hand-embroidered, the skirt in triple effect, with each flounce of scalloped Swiss eyelet embroidery. The high shirred girde into which the skirt is extended gives a princess effect. Over the pretty bodice is laid a white round collar of rose point lace, making a charming finish. She will wear a hat of white satin, the crown embroidered with pearls, an applique of Princess Louise lace partly covering the brim. Under the brim is laid a long white ostrich plume. Her bouquet will be of white roses and orange blossoms.

Miss Fallant's gown is of soft white silk, with rose applique and much pretty hand embroidery. She will wear a white hat with white plumes, and yellow roses, and will carry a bouquet of yellow roses.

The boutonnières of the ushers will be white roses and of the best man a yellow rose, carrying out the color plan of the wedding, and the bridegroom will wear a boutonniere of orange blossoms. Mrs. Waldhauer will wear black, with delicate lace.

After the ceremony, the members of the bridal party will be entertained informally at the home of the bride's mother, on Oglethorpe Avenue. Here, too, the decorations are most attractive, with a frieze of Southern smilax on the walls, and many pretty flowers arranged in the drawing-room. The rooms will be softly lighted by candles shaded in white, and narcissus and yellow jonquils fill the mantel and the tables. Assisting in serving the punch will be Mrs. R. J. Travis, Mrs. Roger Patterson, Mrs. R. G. Blanton and Mrs. Herschel Williams. The refreshments will be served by some girl friends of the bride—Miss Gertrude Fallant, Miss Josephine Tyler, of Richmond; Miss Edith Ulmer and Miss Helen Davidson. Among the guests will be the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. W. Smith, of Americus.

Many very beautiful wedding gifts have been received. Among them are two handsome silver bowls, a large and smaller one, with repousse borders, the gift of General Gordon. Winston fought in the command of the bride's father, the late Captain Waldhauer, during the Civil War. Other beautiful gifts are a tea service of porcelain, with an applied design in gold, from relatives in the West; a set of silver table spoons, over 175 years old, which come from the bride's Van Buren relatives, and marked with Martin Van Buren's initials; a set of flat silver, marked with the family crest, from the bride's brothers, and several handsome cut-glass and silver bowls, dishes and other pieces, besides articles

THE ANGELUS

By BRET HARTE.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series. Angelus means the bell tolled morning, noon and evening in commemoration of the announcement made to the Virgin Mary by the Angel Gabriel that she was to be the mother of Jesus. It is called the Angelus because in the Latin version of the New Testament the word Angelus, meaning an angel, is the first word in the narrative. Portia is a village in New Mexico. The Treadle was the name given to the fortress attached to Spanish settlements. The host is the bread and wine consecrated according to Roman Catholic doctrine into the body and blood of Jesus Christ.

The poet evidently is thinking of the host as the ostensorium in which the chalice containing the host is kept. Its burnished appearance might suggest a miniature sun. The copyright edition of Bret Harte's poems is published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York.

BELLS of the Past, whose long-forgotten music
Still fills the wide expanse,
Tingling the sober twilight of the Present
With color of romance.

I hear your call, and see the sun descending
On rock and wave and sand,
As down the coast the Mision voices, blending,
Girdle the heathen land.

Within the circle of your incantation
No blight nor mildew falls,
Nor fierce unrest, nor lust, nor low ambition
Passes those airy walls.

Borne on the swell of your long waves receding,
I touch the farther Past—
I see the dying glow of Spanish glory,
The sunset dream and last.

Before me rise the dome-shaped Mission towers,
The white Presidio;
The stout commander in his leathern jerkin,
The priest in stole of snow.

Once more I see Portia's cross uplifting
Above the setting sun;
And past the headland, northward, slowly drifting,
The freighted galleon.

O, solemn bells! whose concentrated masses
Recall the faith of old—
O, tinkling bells! that lulled with twilight music
The spiritual fold.

Your voices break and falter in the darkness—
Break, falter, and are still;
And veiled and mystic, like the Host descending,
The sun sinks from the hill.

brice-hrnc and many personal gifts.

Mr. Williamson and his bride will leave this afternoon for Washington and Richmond, and before going to their future home in Norfolk, will visit Mrs. Charles Patterson Cardwell at Signal Hill, Va., who will give a reception. The bride's going-away gown is a Scotch tartan in green and blue, and her hat a turban of velvet, with peacock breasts.

Mr. Williamson at one time lived in Savannah, although originally from Holywell, Flintshire, England. He is a civil engineer by profession, and is connected with the chief engineers' office of the Seaboard Air Line at Portsmouth, Va.

Miss Waldhauer is not only exceedingly pretty, of a small brunette type, but has much natural sweetness and charm of manner that have endeared her to a wide circle of friends here, and it will be much regretted that her marriage takes her away from Savannah. Her mother was before her marriage to the late Captain Waldhauer, of Savannah, Miss Jane Winston, of Hanover county, Va. Captain Waldhauer commanded the Georgia Hussars during the Civil War.

The bridal party were entertained by Miss Louise Fallant the evening before the wedding.

Mrs. P. B. Winston, of "Courtland," Hanover county, will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Williamson at dinner during their visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cardwell, of Hanover.

Ridley—Godwin.

An occasion of interest to many people throughout Virginia was the marriage of Miss Nettie Morris Godwin to Dr. Francis Ridley, which took place yesterday at noon in the home of Mrs. William Wirt Lewell, of No. 906 Floyd Avenue.

The Rev. T. McNider Simpson, of Clay Street Methodist Church, formerly pastor of Monumental Methodist Church in Portsmouth, performed the ceremony, which owing to a recent bereavement in the bride's family, was attended only by the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

Miss Annie McCarrall Godwin attended her sister as maid of honor, and Mr.

Robert Ridley, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Mrs. Ridley is the daughter of the late John M. Godwin, of Charlottesville, and is a social favorite in University and Charlottesville circles.

Dr. Ridley is the third son of Mrs. Norfleet Ridley, of Portsmouth. He is a young man of unusual ability, and is now resident physician to the Portland Cement Company, in Fordwick, Va.

After a short wedding tour, Dr. and Mrs. Ridley will visit Mrs. Norfleet Ridley in Portsmouth, before going to their home in Fordwick.

Among the guests, who came from a distance to attend the wedding were: Mrs. Norfleet Ridley, Misses Bessie and Annie Blount Ridley, Mr. William Ridley, altho of Portsmouth; Mrs. Charles W. Allen and Mr. Huff, of Charlottesville.

Hicks—McMechen.

The Newport News Times-Herald, of Tuesday, March 13th, contains the following wedding announcement of interest to Richmonders. The Times-Herald says: The wedding is announced from Philadelphia, of Miss Helen McMechen, daughter of the late Benjamin Franklin McMechen, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mr. William Claiborne Hicks, formerly of Richmond, the wedding having taken place on March 7th at noon at St. Stephen's Church. On their return from their wedding trip a reception will be given at the home of the bride's mother in Philadelphia.

Aunspugh—McCoy.

To-day at Rich Square, Va., Miss Ruth McCoy of Suffolk will be married to Mr. Frederick Aunspugh, a prominent young insurance man of Norfolk. Miss McCoy is very kindly remembered in Suffolk, where her personal attractiveness made her a favorite. Among the Suffolk people who went down for the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Woodward.

Van Louven—Emerson.

Announcement has been made of the approaching wedding of Miss Eleanor Chase Emerson, daughter of President T. M. Emerson, of the Atlantic Coast Line, to Mr. Cornelius Van Louven, the wedding will take place in Wilmington, N. C., on Monday, April 16th.

Miss Emerson has frequently visited in Richmond, where she has many relatives and friends, who will be interested in the announcement.

Miss Hubbard Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Hamilton announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Hubbard, to Mr. Fletcher Montgomery, of Staunton, Connecticut, the marriage to take place next winter.

Chapter Meeting.

At the meeting of the Richmond Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, yesterday, an amendment to the constitution was proposed, providing for the enrollment of life members and fixing the fee at $10. Mrs. Walter D. Christian proposed that no lady under forty years of age should be admitted as a life member. This latter motion was seconded by Miss Bettie Ellison; but after an animated discussion, in which Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Mrs. George Lyons, Mrs. Dabney Carr and others took part, Mrs. Christian withdrew her motion.

Mrs. George Lyons's motion to make the life membership fees an endowment fund was lost, but will come up at the next meeting, when the entire amendment will be discussed and voted on.

The corresponding secretary was instructed to write a letter to senator Foraker, thanking him for introducing the bill to mark Confederate graves.

Mrs. D. B. Richardson, representing the Oakwood Memorial Association, gave $10 towards the Fitzhugh Lee monument fund, and $10 towards a case in the Confederate Museum, in which the records of the association may be kept.

Mrs. Wade, chairman of the silver tea recently given by the chapter, reported $23.45 receipts from the entertainment.

Mrs. George W. Neils, of Newport News, was the guest of the chapter and made an encouraging report of the work in her city.

Mr. Edgar Taylor was made an honorary member of the chapter, and the following new members were elected: Mrs. John G. Corley, Mrs. D. T. Williams, Miss May L. Collier, Miss Nellie V. Williams, Miss Jennie Bell Williams and Miss Myrtle Subank.

Before the chapter adjourned resolutions of sympathy for Mrs. B. A. Blenner in her recent affliction were adopted.

Those present were: Mrs. D. C. Richardson, Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Miss Minnie Baughman, Mrs. J. B. Hill, Mrs. Barksdale, Miss Julia A. Grant, Mrs. J. H. Timberlake, Mrs. G. A. Lyon, Mrs. E. D. Taylor, Mrs. C. W. P. Brock, Mrs. Hugh M. Taylor, Mrs. E. C. Courtney, Mrs. D. A. Timberlake, Mrs. E. V. Valentine, Miss Bettie Ellison, Mrs. H. B. Fitzhugh, Mrs. Robert Christian, Mrs. Walter Christian, Miss Helena Peebles, Mrs. W. R. Vawter, Mrs. Virginia Johnson, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. Dabney Carr.

Memorial Tablet.

A memorial tablet, to the memory of the Rev. Dr. James Waddell, will be presented to Lancaster county, through the Circuit Court, by Captain George P. Godwin, of Lancaster, who is the son of the Rev. Dr. Waddell, where it is to be placed, next Monday, March 19th.

The inscription on the tablet is in black and gold letters, with an open Bible carved above. The text of the inscription is as follows:

Rev. James Waddell, D. D., The Blind Preacher, Teacher, Orator, Son of Thomas and Janet Waddell, of County Down, Ireland.

Born on the Atlantic Ocean in 1730 when his parents emigrated to America. Died in Louisa county, Va., September 17, 1806.

Licensed as a probationer April 2, 1761, by the old Presbytery of Hanover. Resided on Corratoman River, Lancaster county, Va., in 1762, and had three preaching places, viz: Lancaster Court-house, the Forest of Meeting House and the Northumberland Meeting House.

In 1768 married Mary Gordon, daughter of Colonel James Gordon, of Lancaster county, an elder in the church and a member of the court, and the maternal grandfather of General William F. Gordon, of Albemarle.

Taught Morriether Lewis and Governor James Barbour.

Was at one time minister of the Thinking Spring Church, Augusta county, Va., and as a patriot in the Revolution addressed Tate's company at Midway, Rockbridge county, Va.

Remembered in Wirt's British Spy, when in a sermon of thrilling oratory and magic eloquence on the Passion of Our Saviour, he electrified his hearers by the beautiful and sublime quotation from Rousseau: "Socrates died like a philosopher, but Jesus Christ like a God."

Flagger House Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Flagger gave a musicale at their home, "Whitehall," Monday night for Mrs. Tombroke Jones, who is a member of their home party.

Mr. Louis H. Haslanger, of New York, who has a fine baritone voice, sang several selections, assisted by Mrs. Joy at the pipe organ and Signor Maglionico by orchestra. The recital was followed by a luncheon. Miss Flagger, who was among the guests, has gone with her mother and Mr. and Mrs. Flagger to Miami for a few days' stay.

Landmark Committee.

The Landmark Committee of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities met for the first time with Mrs. J. Taylor Ellison Tuesday afternoon.

Those present were: Mr. Jonathan

Bryan, Colonel Archer Anderson, Mrs. Decatur Astell, Mrs. William Russell Jones, Mrs. James Chalkie, Mrs. George Bryan, Mrs. W. G. Stannard and Mr. W. L. Sheppard.

The committee discussed the best means of marking historic points, and buildings of interest in Richmond, dating from the earliest history of the city to the year 1861. They are desirous of having the work done, and would be especially grateful for any information that could be furnished them by citizens of long residence here in the matter of identifying buildings and sites.

Miss Sullivan Here.

Miss Mary Sullivan, of Baltimore, is the guest of Mrs. Henry A. Williams, of No. 112 West Grace Street.

Miss Sullivan is the granddaughter of the famous naval officer, Franklin Buchanan, of Baltimore, organizer and first superintendent of the United States Military Academy in Annapolis, Md., commander of the "Germantown" at the capture of Vera Cruz during the Mexican War, and of the "Hudson" of Commodore Perry's flagship, in the expedition which opened China and Japan to the world's commerce.

He resigned from the United States navy in April of 1861, and in the service of the Confederacy commanded the "Merimac," or the "Virginia," in the attack on the Federal fleet in Hampton Roads. For his gallantry at this time he was thanked by the Confederate Congress and made full admiral in the Confederate navy, subsequently superintending the construction of the ironclad ram, Tennessee, which he commanded during the action with the Union fleet in Mobile Bay, August 5, 1864.
